

CYW in NYC for the Clinton Global Initiative (CGI)

An important part of the Center for Youth Wellness mission is to raise national awareness about ACEs and toxic stress among parents, pediatricians, and policymakers—everyone who has the power to make a difference. We are excited to let you know that our CEO, Dr. Nadine Burke Harris is representing the Center for Youth Wellness at the 10th Annual Meeting of the Clinton Global Initiative, taking place this week in New York City.

Nadine is joining Hillary Clinton, Geoffrey Canada and others for a panel on the “Science of Success: Investing in Babies’ Minds.” The conversation will be moderated by CNN’s Sanjay Gupta, and will be taped to air on the network this Saturday at 1:30PM PT and Sunday at 4:30AM PT. Investing in early childhood development garners phenomenal returns, improving the future health, education, and income of children. The goal of the panel is to inspire all of us to re-imagine how to equip parents across the world with the tools necessary to provide their children with the best early start in life, and to identify proven early childhood interventions.

This is part of our ongoing work with Hillary Clinton and the Clinton Foundation to empower parents, families, and entire communities with the tools they need to help kids succeed. In 2013, we joined with them and Next Generation at CGI for the launch of Too Small To Fail, a national movement to protect and support kids across the U.S. You can learn more about the CGI 10th Annual Meeting by visiting: www.clintonglobalinitiative.org/2014.
